

Launching: Company stall layout 2.0

Revolutionising how career fair participants and companies interact

Look forward to maximised interaction before, during and after your virtual career fairs.

The new company stall layout 2.0 will be available across all virtual career fair portals from Christmas 2020 - a present from us to you.

With the new stall setup, companies can share even more branding material in stalls filled with interaction options - and participants are met with an intuitive, interactive interface.

Look forward to your most engaging virtual career fair yet.

What do we do?

Founded in 2010, we're probably too grown-up to still call ourselves a startup. But we're a startup at heart where responsibility is given upfront, autonomy is encouraged, and opportunity is everywhere. We have a global perspective and we're a mishmash of world citizens who share the belief that the right employees matched to the right roles will ultimately create the most value.

As we outgrow our startupness, we're focusing on unlocking new growth opportunities, accessing new markets, expanding our team, and building upon our core strengths. This translates into a very rewarding work environment, but it also requires a certain personality. We value bright minds, team players, self-starters, and passionate problem-solvers who are motivated to change the future of job search and recruitment.

Graduateland is located in Copenhagen, in the largest startup hub in the Nordics. With more than 50 growth companies Graduateland is a fish in the water here. Most of the activities are operated from the HQ, from where the bulk of the team works. In addition to our CPH office, most of our tech team is sitting remote – in exciting places like Vilnius, Warsaw, and Barcelona. We believe in building the best product for our target audience. This audience is made up of candidates, companies, and universities. We are big fans of input and data, which are key elements in how we keep improving our product, keep innovating in the old school industry of recruitment, and build our business. We are always on the lookout for talent. Keep an eye out for open positions – set up a job agent, so you don't miss out on starting your career within a company that starts careers for a living!
